(Greer, SC) - Gamma Meccanica North American Division Expands to New Offices and Warehouse

Innovative Recycling Solutions, LLC and Gamma Meccanica North America have moved to new offices as of August 1, 2009. "We are very excited to be expanding our efforts and abilities for the North American market during this period. To date we are well positioned to handle the rapid growth and opportunity we see now and in the near future for our market." says Heath Sellers, President and General Manager. The combined office and warehouse benefits from 7500 square feet of space and is conveniently located in Greer, SC adjacent to the Greenville/Spartanburg International Airport off Interstate 85 and Hwy 14 at 59 Concourse Way, Building E, Greer, SC 29650.

For over 22 years Gamma Meccanica has been known as a quality provider for plastics reclaim solutions. We offer solutions for both post-industrial and post-consumer plastic waste streams. We are excited that the opening of this new, larger facility will enable us to better service our clients and the North American market for plastics recycling technology. The new Innovative Recycling Solutions, LLC and Gamma Meccanica North America offices will primarily focus on sales, distribution, marketing, after-sales support, service and further development of the sales network throughout North America.

In addition to opening new offices we are very pleased to announce Catherine A. Sadler, of Greenville, SC, has joined our team as Office Manager and new point of contact for our customers.

Ms. Sadler is a native of South Florida having been raised in Rolling Meadow, IL and holds a BFA from Northern Illinois University. Catherine brings a unique and diversified background to the Innovative/Gamma front office. Her personal family ties to Italy for over 22 years and extensive time instructing and hosting international executives from every area of industry as a conversational English language instructor in the Upstate community, are real assets to joining the team. During the past 10 years in South Carolina she has proved herself to be highly regarded in business and non-profit circles for her communication, networking and people skills and quickly becomes known as a recognizable face for a business in the community.

Ms. Sadler's role as Office Manager will be to support Mr. Sellers to maximize his efficiency and relieve him of administrative tasks, take initiative to coordinate workflow and keep projects on schedule. Additionally, as part of the Innovative /Gamma team she will help develop procedures manuals for all aspects of routine office function, handle travel and meeting arrangements, improve and update company database management, IT, website, PR and marketing efforts, and perform general A/P and A/R day-to-day functions.

About Innovative Recycling Solutions, LLC – As your leader in innovative solutions for plastics recycling, Innovative Recycling Solutions and Gamma Meccanica North America plan to expand in the coming years and approach the market in a much different way than other European manufacturers. solutions to improve our environment. Our process begins with partnering with our clients for the long term. Together we can be successful and innovative. Our biggest asset is our customers, and the knowledge they have of their industry. We sell applications not just machines. Our goal is to sell our current products together with new innovative services, training, and consulting. We continue to offer retrofit technology that adds value to existing systems and improves performance.

If there is something we can offer you in product, service or consultancy at this time, or in the near future, we invite you to contact us to find out more and determine how our unique sales approach can benefit you. Please note our new fax number for receivables, payables and purchase orders.
